

D.J. Edmiston

Bad Plot Twist Biography

D.J. Edmiston is the New York Times and Avocado Weekly bestselling author of more than 400 novels, plays, and books for children, unanimously dubbed by critics and readers alike of being “astoundingly perfect.” Translated into more than a thousand languages, his works have sold over sixty zillion copies and are single-handedly responsible for supporting the economic growth of the Milky Way. His philanthropic contributions to every charity known to humanity has eliminated all disease except for gout, leading to the adoration of fans worldwide and beyond. Residing in a tropical paradise, he is a married father of two beautiful children who never whine, a dozen fish who never die, and three dogs who will never need a diaper. And writing has never been easier.

Then he woke up.
